

Crisis [2013/9]

Call for papers – The Concept of Crisis.

Winter Symposium in Study group 3 on Crisis, Oslo 14-16 March 2014

This workshop will examine the concept of Crisis as it is used in many different ways in the present situation.

‘Crisis’ means a confrontation between old and new. ‘Crisis’ can mean a rupture with the old ways of thinking and a chance of dislodging rigid ways of thinking, including those in the academy. There is a crisis of a notion of stable 'subject hood' in which new critical theory and philosophical ideas might also have a place. We could propose ways of looking at 'crisis' in gender relations, the arts and humanities and the continuing debates of the crisis of the current capitalist practices. Why is it that the latter has so far not produced any real change? A discussion of 'crisis' and the ways in which the notion is impacting culture and society might be of interest.

We invite all kinds of papers that relate to this topic and define the topic of crisis. We really look forward to your contributions.

Please send proposals as soon as possible and not much later than December 1, 2013.

Proposals for papers as abstracts, drafts or final papers should be send to
